

Formatted: English (U.S.)

How to Choose an Outfit

Kira

Have you ever been so nervous that you wanted to jump off a bridge because (not 'because of') you didn't know what to wear to an important event, such as on your Prom Night or your first date? Have you ever experienced sleepless nights knowing in your heart that he doesn't love you and never will? Have you ever wanted to impress without lots of money to spend on new clothes? If you have, then I just may have some tips that'll help your man latch on to you, hook, line and sinker, for as long as you'd like him to.

Tip number one; the worn out, ragged T-shirt look can be used at casual parties as well as at elegant ballroom dancing events. If you were to find yourself going to a ballroom festival, for example, I might suggest you wear an almost see-through light colored dinner gown with a holey, dilapidated T-shirt underneath that will create a subtle visual mystique and curiosity for the homely, homeless haggard look that will entice the man to take pity on your pathetic, gauntly soul. If that doesn't catch his eye, go into the john ('the john' means the bathroom.), change into a normal dress slip, and wrap the shoddy T-shirt around your head into a purely magnificent and tasteful headscarf, for the more Rambo or G.I. Jane look.

Tip number two; don't get too drunk, but get just drunk enough to where you're loud and obnoxious enough that the neighbors in the other building will want to take refuge. If you behave in such a manner properly, it is sure that he'll feel sorry for you and want to get you out of where ever the hell you're at. At that point, he'll grab you tightly and glare (or stare) into your eyes, which will then give you the opportunity to make faces and exchange eye contact with him, and if his breath doesn't stink to high heavens, isn't the stench of full-fledged garlic breathe, for example, this could be the very beginning of a romance made for kings and queens.

For more details, please read my book "Never Again Will the Old Jerk Leave You Unless You Want Him to."

Well, if you follow my methodology, you will surely catch the man you have always been wanting but could never in your wildest dreams have. And if my methods truly don't work, guess what? You'll still have ample time to jump.

**Here are some tips on how to choose the perfect dress.

Firstly, find a T-shirt that you usually wear. If it is, for instance black or white, you can wear it with any kind of colour. If it is colourful (Are we talking Hawaiian here??) you should wear jeans (jeans and glasses are plural) which have a similar shade (more visual is needed).

You can wear some necklace (Are you telling people something interesting or is it something that most everyone knows and nobody cares about hearing?), bracelet or ring (What kind?) this is your choice. Of course it is. In this kind of essay, you should use passive verb forms rather than pointing to me by saying 'You'. My best friend and I (Are you the subject (I, You, We, They) or the object (me, us, you, them?)) and my best friends are like two peas in a pod. We often wear similar ...??

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Note: I rewrote it for you. It's too boring and so plain. Pretend that you are making a fantasy world, a story for a play or film production, or you're reading to your kid. Is what you wrote going to hold someone's attention? Not on your life. Read the following translated text and watch the video: The Law of Averages; <http://www.mediaaccess.hu/index.php?module=sourcepage&id=61&lang=1>

***

Formatted: English (U.S.)

Have you ever been so nervous because of you didn't know what to wear on an important event? Here are some tips how to choose the perfect dress.

Firstly, find a T-shirt which you usually wear. If it is, for instance black or white, you can wear it with every kind of colour. If it is colourful you should wear a jeans which have a similar shad.

You can wear there with some neclace, bracelet or ring (this is your choice.) Me and my best friends are like two pears in a pod. We often wear similar ...??